This coming week is the time set for all of Alberta to organize for the campaign to raise funds for the blind. Blindness is one of the most tragic penalties fate can impose on a human being. When blindness strikes it reduces its victims to an appalling state of servitude. The heartbreaking indignity of dependency is hard to take. It wrings dry, from the souls of its victims, all dreams of the happiness and freedom that is man's rightful hope through the glorious consummation of his own independence.

A path has been found by which the sightless can escape that endless serfdom of the total darkness that is the abyss of blindness. They can be educated to take a place in the competitive world. The Canadian Institute for the Blind has established a school in Calgary to train these people to take care of themselves and at the same time they are taught to make things to sell in the open market. Those all-weather door mats made from old tires and wire are made by the blind and most of the baskets now in Alberta are made by blind workers. A few more projects are under way and many more are planned for as soon as funds can be raised to provide the ways and means.

The work of collecting funds is carried entirely by Service Clubs and other beneficent societies, free of charge with these organizations paying all handling and executive expense. Every dollar donated by you is turned into useful equipment for the blind people. If some people are willing to spend their time and energy as well as substantial sums of money, you should be willing to give more freely to help the unfortunate blind learn to be independent and useful citizens. They are not asking for charity—they are asking you to invest in worthwhile economic projects that will give you ample returns in satisfaction and in a more stable national economy. When the canvassers call show how sorry you are by signing your name to a very substantial donation for this worthwhile cause.

The local Lions Club members are also working with the International Association of Lions Clubs on another scheme of which you have heard much

The Leader-Dog Project

Ten years ago a group of outstanding Michigan Lions conceived the idea of founding a school to serve the blind of the Middle-West and in a contest for a suitable name a club in Illinois submitted the winner—Leader-Dog.

To those Lions Clubs in Michigan, with enthusiastic support from many other Lions Clubs, is due the tremendous success of not only organizing but the great and rapid efficiency that has been achieved by the Leader-Dog League for the Blind at Rochester.

We can vision no other national interest that could so genuinely add to the spiritual value of our Lions Clubs' history of service to our fellow-men than the rescue of these helpless blind and their rejuvenation into active, self-confident citizens.

The discovery of the lowly dog to become the capable companion of the blind opens up the first great possibility of mass rehabilitation of that vast, unfortunate section of our national life.

Wedding Reception for Mr. and Mrs. D. Allen

A Wedding Reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Doug. Allen, who were married in the Idaho Falls Temple Wednesday September 6th, was held in the Stake House which was very beautifully decorated with pink and white streamers and a profusion of gladioli and sweet peas, Friday night.

The lovely bride, who was the former Rae Jensen, chose a gown of lustrous white satin, beautiful in its simplicity, designed with lily point sleeves and a short train. The full length veil cascaded from a satin Juliet Cap, and red roses in the heart of white gladioli blossoms surrounding a cluster of sweetheart roses made up the bride's bouquet. Colleen Ralph maid of honor, wore a gown of pink nylon taffeta, and the bridesmaids, Betty Jo McLean, Jean Mehew and Audrey Jensen wore gowns of pink net yellow and green taffeta respectively, and carried nosegays of gladioli sweet peas and roses. Tom Whitbeck attended the groom and Joe Keeler, Reid Walker and Jim Bridge were the ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Melchin welcomed the guests at the door and Shirley Allen, Jolayne Dahl and Reita Walker received and arranged the many gifts. Janet Turner presided over the Guest Book. The Bridal Party received the guests against the background of early fall flowers, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Harker directed the guests into the appropriately decorated lunch room. The Wedding Cake was in a large rectangular shape with three little steps at one corner leading to the top and a wide pink ribbon lead from this corner to the opposite where a miniature bride and groom stood. Gen Hawkins and Eva Ralph acted as hostesses and Emma Dahl played a number of selections of dinner music while the tasty lunch which was prepared by Mrs. Bowden, Mrs. McLean and Mrs. Garner, was served by Bonnie Fawns, Gertrude Anderson, Vivian Fawns Elaine Stevenson and Wilma and Mildred Jensen. Mrs. William Jensen chose for her daughter's wedding an afternoon frock of gold crepe, and Mrs. Heber Allen, the groom's mother, chose an afternoon dress of black crepe; both dresses being complimented by a pink corsage.

The bride and groom were seated on a sofa, which had been draped in white, for the following program with Dean Rolfsen as Master of Ceremonies. Shirley Allen very ably played the piano selection "Clare de Lune", Jeanne Jensen gave a beautiful rendition of "A Brown Bird Singing" and "My Love Loves Me", and Betty Hamilton told the very touching, "Wedding Story". "Maybe It's Because" was beautifully rendered by Gen Hawkins, Melba and Bill Mehew. A lovely piano selection was then played by Katherine Keeler, followed by a solo by Evelyn Melchin, "The Sunshine of Your Smile".

A black gabardine suit complimented by a corsage of red roses, and white accessories was worn by the bride as they left on their honeymoon.

Mrs. W. C. Stone was made very happy the other night when members of her family held a surprise party at her home in honor of her birthday. Mrs. Winnie Elliott was down from Calgary for the event.

Pretty Wedding at Sacred Heart Church

Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Raymond, was the setting of a beautiful wedding on Saturday, September 9th, at 10 a.m., when Vicky Kwolek, R.N., of the Municipal Hospital staff, daughter of Mr. Anthony Kwolek and the late Mrs. Katherine Kwolek, of Melita, Manitoba, became the bride of Mr. Roger Desmet of Lethbridge, formerly of Raymond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Desmet.

Rev. Father R. P. Sullivan officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The Church was beautifully decorated with colorful gladioli and sweet peas.

Mrs. Herbe Wilde played the organ as the bride entered on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage.

For her wedding dress the bride chose a gown of lovely floral lace with lily point sleeves, sweetheart neckline and tapering frills from the waist-line down. Her circular finger-tip veil was gathered at the top on a halo of nylon net inset with pearls. She carried a cascade of white gladioli and pink roses and an ivory prayer book.

The bride's only attendant was Mrs. Margaret Van Insburg, sister of the groom, as Matron of Honor. She chose a gown of daffodil yellow taffeta with gloves and chapel veil to match. She carried mauve asters and bright gold gladioli.

Following the ceremony congratulations and best wishes were bestowed upon the newly-weds by the friends who attended the ceremony.

Immediately following, the happy couple, accompanied by close friends and relatives left for Lethbridge where a dinner was enjoyed at the Marquis Hotel with Mr. Frank Bartossek as Master of Ceremonies. The only out-of-town guest was Mr. Anthony Kwolek of Melita, Manitoba.

While in Raymond the bride and groom received congratulations and best wishes by Long Distance from Dr. and Mrs. Steven E. Hudecki, Miss Pauline Kwolek, R.N., and from Roy Schwieter in Buffalo, N.Y.

The happy couple will spend their honeymoon in Melita, home of the bride and upon their return will make their home in Lethbridge.

Capitol Theatre News

One of the most unusual and funniest shows of the current season is "Adam's Rib" which is now playing at the Capitol. It has a wonderful cast including Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn. If you want to forget your troubles and worries be sure to see it.

And, by the way, another hit you will get a "bang" out of is on the way. It is "Francis" that talking mule. It is the most hilarious film sensation in the past five years.

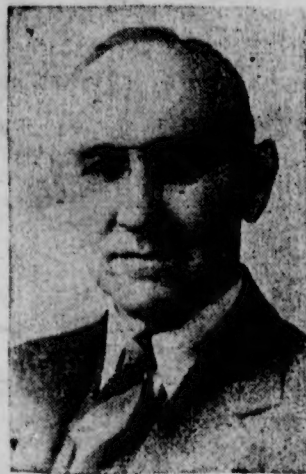

We have two warnings for you good people. The first and by far the most important is "Watch the chocolate bars you eat". We got one here in town the other night and just as Roxie was biting into it she saw a worm. Oh well, it wasn't half a worm so she can't kick too much. "Punch" (which used to be her favorite bar) was the name of it.

The other warning is that the radio licence inspectors were in town and are coming back the first part of next month so play safe, get your licence and maybe save yourself court costs.

Speaks at Taber House-warming

E. J. Maynard

who was the Guest Speaker at the Taber Sugar Factory House Warming and Inspection Party held Tuesday

E. J. Maynard is an authority on western livestock feeding. Holding degrees from New Mexico Agricultural College and Iowa State College, he came to Colorado in 1919 and for 12 years was in charge of Animal Investigations at the Colorado Agricultural Experiment Station. In 1931 he was appointed head of the Animal Husbandry Department and later Dean of Agriculture and Forestry at the Utah State Agricultural College. During the past twenty-six years he has been constantly in touch with feeding experiments conducted at various state experiment stations and with feeding operations on farms in the Western Beet Belt. He is at present General Livestock Consultant for The Great Western Sugar Company with headquarters at Denver, Colorado.

Mr. Maynard discussed the value of sugar beet by-products.

The afternoon tour was for beet growers and the residents of Taber. Barnhill and Coaldale were also invited for the evening functions as guests of Canadian Sugar Factories Limited.

The Housewarming Celebration was as follows:

Prayer by Pres. A. E. Palmer of the Lethbridge Stake.

Address of Welcome by General Manager T. Geo. Wood who carried the theme "A vision has come true".

Introduction of Directors of Alta. Sugar Beet Growers Assn., 22 veteran Beet Growers for the Knight Sugar Co. in 1904, Sugar Co. executives and Sugar Co. veterans with more than 25 years of service.

Address by Phil Baker, Pres. Alta. Sugar Beet Growers Assn., on "The Future of Our Beet Industry".

Two numbers by the Taber Factory Quartet, "Dry Bones" and "Sugar Beet Melody".

Guest Speaker, E. J. Maynard who spoke on "The Unique Value of Sugar Beet Tops and D.M.B. Pulp".

The evening was concluded with a luncheon and dancing with about 2,800 guests enjoying themselves to the full.

There is no power on earth more formidable than the truth. — Runbeck Holland.

Capacity Crowds at Stake Conference

The Taylor Stake Quarterly Conference was held in the Stake House last Sunday and, although no general authorities of the Church were able to be here, capacity crowds attended all three sessions.

Before the first regular session was held the Mothers and Daughters met in the Chapel for a very enlightening program, while the men met in the Recreation Hall to hear a program conducted by Pres. L. L. Palmer. After singing "Did You Think to Pray" and the prayer by Verrn Spackman Pres. Walker spoke briefly on the responsibility of members with the Priesthood to understand his duty and do it. He also related some personal faith promoting experiences.

Other speakers of the meeting were D. A. Bennett, Ray Harker, Bill Nalder Jimmy Gibb, Robert Anderson, Malcolm Smith, Pres. John Allen and Stake Clerk Wm. Anderson.

After the roll-call, "I'll Go Where You Want Me To Go" was sung and James E. Harker offered the closing prayer.

The regular morning session was presided over by Pres. J. H. Walker and conducted by Pres. John Allen. The opening song, "Now Let Us Rejoice" was sung by the congregation and the Stirling Choir who provided the music for the first two sessions. This choir was under the direction of Mrs. Young with Mrs. Perrett at the organ. The prayer was offered by T. Geo. Wood.

Pres. Walker reported on the Stake Welfare Program telling that each ward in the Stake now has a farm and that the Stake has purchased and renovated the old cold storage plant Millard's Literary Club, with Gladys King in charge, met at the home of Mrs. Glen Meeks on Monday evening with 16 members and 3 guests present, the guests were Kay Anderson, Mable Kenney and Zetella Taylor. Beth Galbraith presented the very interesting and humorous book review of "The Lamp is Heavy". This was the true-to-life story of a nurse in training (as vouched for by the nurses present).

A delicious lunch was served.

Legion Ladies Auxiliary

Monday evening the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion was held at the Legion Hall, with seventeen ladies present. Following the regular business, the sale of Christmas cards was discussed, with cards being given to member present to sell. They are very beautiful cards and are reasonably priced so we are very hopeful that, with public support, we can raise quite a sum of money for our worthy work.

The subject of a fall bazaar was discussed and a tentative date of November 4th was set. The material on hand was passed out to the members to be made up into various articles.

A tasty lunch was then served and the meeting brought to a close.

If a member of the Auxiliary does not contact you with regards to our cards, orders can be placed with Mrs. H. McKean, Mrs. Delbert Thompson, Mrs. Clayton Ralph, Mrs. Cec Winters, Mrs. Wayne Phillips or Mrs. Ruby Holland.

ROTE SPOKES

Monday, September 11th, 1950, will go down in the annals of the Raymond Rotary Club as the day Lyman Jacobs forecast "Things to Come" a la Drew Pearson. Seriously, Lyman, as our guest speaker, gave an extremely interesting talk on current events. He brought home in no uncertain terms the fact that today there is going on an immense struggle for power. Call it Cold War or some other temperature, we are at war now; make no mistake about it. Thank you, Lyman, for your usual interesting thoughts so well expressed.

We heard the good news Monday that two new members are joining our Club, Mr. Garner from Calgary Power and Mr. Dahl of Fritz Farm Supply. Next week will see their induction services.

Difficulties are compounded by worry and lethargy.

On April 16, the Sunday before this year's baseball season opened, Arthur Daley, sports columnist of the New York Times, ventured to predict the order in which the teams of the American and National leagues would finish.

Mathematically, the odds against predicting the correct order of finish in either league are one in 40,400. The odds against picking both correctly are one in 1,625,702,400.

Despite the odds against him Daley presented the American league teams in this order: Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees, Detroit Tigers, Cleveland Indians, Philadelphia Athletics, Chicago White Sox, St. Louis Browns, Washington Senators.

National league, Brooklyn Dodgers, Philadelphia Phillies, Boston Braves, New York Giants, St. Louis Cardinals, Pittsburgh Pirates, Cincinnati Reds, Chicago Cubs.

Have you noticed a slightly feminine air about the paper lately? If so it is because my good and lovely wife has added one more thing to her long list of accomplishments. Now, besides being secretary, bookkeeper and all the other things mentioned in our first paper, she is learning to operate the linotype. At first I wasn't very happy about it but after seeing how quickly she is mastering the trade I can only say that I certainly appreciate having such a wonderful wife and partner.

On Sunday afternoon we had another wonderful fried chicken dinner. My folks from Magrath came over and took us out to Roxie's folks farm at Shaughnessy where we all ate with a kind of dignified gusto. A lot of talk, a lot of chicken with trimmings and a lot of fun.

As we passed the Factory Lake on the way home, mother, in a reminiscent mood, told of how, when she was a young girl, she would, after visiting in Magrath, strike out across the bald prairie for her home in Taber and arrive there without once getting off her horse to open a gate. Stories like that are fun to listen to but I, for one, am glad to be living in this modern day and age of the world. Sometimes, when we hear stories like that, we wonder how they ever lived in those days. We certainly owe a great debt of gratitude to the pioneers don't we?

My mother sometimes gets her dates mixed up and Tuesday night was one of those times. She and dad came over to see "Adam's Rib" at the Capitol and when they found that they were here on the wrong night they came to see us at the shop. Roxie missed out on the visit though 'cause she was at Mutual. After their visit both mother and dad are a little wiser about printing. We like telling about it so come in some time won't you?

For Parents Only

By Nancy Cleaver

Happy Bedtime

The end of a small child's day should be a happy time. Most parents are convinced of this, but a great many mothers and fathers will confess that this ideal is not easy to accomplish. In the evening, parents are often fatigued after a busy and sometimes worrying day. Children who have played hard outdoors are tired too, although they will not admit it! Tired parents and weary children are apt to conflict and bedtime becomes a scene of struggle instead of a happy time.

A healthy baby spends more hours asleep than awake, but as a child grows older he has more and more hours awake. There is no one rule which fits all children, but medical authorities agree that a table like the following forms a guide to the parent in judging whether or not his child is getting enough sleep.

One to Two years—from fourteen to seventeen hours.

Two to Three years—from thirteen to fifteen hours.

From Five to Six years—eleven hours at night.

These "sleep hours" include an afternoon nap for the small child and a daytime or a rest period for the school child of four or five. If a mother finds her child unwilling to go to bed in the evening, because he is not sleepy, she may have to cut down on the length of this nap time.

The evening meal for children should be easily digested and served early enough so that there is no sense of rush or hurry at bedtime. A child should have some time for fun, if possible with father who has been away at work during the day. Strenuous over-excitement "rough house" should be avoided. It is hard for many children to relax and go to sleep after too much stimulation. There should be a gradual let-down of excitement and activity as their day draws to a close.

"I'll put you to bed!" should never be used as an angry threat, or as punishment for misbehavior. Rather bedtime associations should be pleasant. In musical families a few minutes to listen to music or to sing is a real treat which children love. Bedtime is picture-book and reading aloud time in countless homes and this is an excellent practice. When a child learns to read well himself, he should have the opportunity not only to read to himself, but also to younger members in the family at bedtime. People of all ages find in the pages of a book an open door to relaxation from the tensions and strains of the day. Books should be among the necessities of the home and not looked on as an "extra".

During the necessary routine of undressing, and going to the toilet, washing or having a warm bath and getting into night clothes, a child should not be admonished constantly to "hurry-up". At the same time there should be a definite place on the clock, whether it is seven or seven thirty or eight for an older child, which is regarded as "bed-time". This can be flexible on special occasions, but a child must understand that as a rule there is a point when his prayers are said, he is tucked in, the light is turned out, and he is left alone. Slumber time has arrived!

Mothers often discover that a child will confide anxieties or unhappiness just before he goes to sleep. A child is helped by being able to tell his troubles to a friendly grown up. A comfortable mattress, a certain amount of quiet, a proper temperature, a darkened room, light but sufficient covers, are all a help to sound sleep. In spite of careful planning, occasionally a child will wake during the night or find it difficult to get to sleep.

With experience parents usually discover that their attitude has to be a mixture of patience and firmness. Going to sleep is not a matter of turning off the light. A happy end to a child's day depends on many factors: parents who are not too tired, healthy children who are accustomed to a schedule, satisfactory physical conditions and pleasant bedtime associations. Happy bed time doesn't just "happen" but it is a very important goal in child training. There is no moment in the whole day quite so rewarding as the very end of their day when mother and father look at their sleeping child, sound asleep in the perfectly relaxed way a little child sleeps. In their hearts they echo a prayer for the safety of their loved ones.

Miss Bernice Litchfield was guest of honor Monday when a shower was tendered her in the beautifully decorated Stake Relief Society Room. LaVeda Larson, Lorraine Litchfield and Merle Judd assisted the bride-to-be in opening and arranging the many lovely gifts, and Norma Smith was in charge of the Guest Book.

The program, with Norma Smith as Master of Ceremonies was as follows: A reading by Norma Dahl, a solo by Merle Judd and a duet by Jean and Joan Holmes. LaVeda Larson gave a reading which was followed by a solo by Della Paxman. The very tasty lunch was served by Jean, Joan and Alice Holmes, Norma Dahl and LaVeda Larson.

Mrs. George Clark (nee Elaine Palmer) from Edmonton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Palmer, is presently visiting her family and friends here prior to leaving for Ontario where her husband, who is in the R. C. A. F., is being posted.

Elaine journeyed to Cardston last Friday where she spent the weekend at the home of her Grandmother, Mrs. M. M. Lee, visiting numerous relatives and friends while there.

Blindness, as a soul-searing robber of the capabilities of self-support, can be defeated. For thousands upon thousands of today's hopeless dependents can be released through the companionship of a dog. Here is a work the like of which is a parallel inspiration to the very services that have always been the life blood of Lions Club activities since its origin. Leader-Dog League facilities are offered to blind prospects from all over the United States. It is a national haven. It is not sectional. Its capacity should and could be increased many times over its present possibilities. To what greater service could Lion Club generosity be devoted? One dollar a year from every Lion Club member in the United States would put thousands of blind citizens back into confident, self-supporting circulation.

 to retain the indispensable ingredient that will save it from the total planners.

We have six millions independent farmers and four million independent business men.

"This decentralization of decision-making," says Dr. Slichter, "is the unique and most important characteristic of the American economy. It means that the rate at which frozen orange juice, hot-water heaters, television, or automatic gear shifts are introduced is determined by millions of consumers, not by government officials."

Freedom to make their own decisions is the choicest blessing of small minorities. A minority of one can revolutionize an industry. The lone man who develops an idea needs to persuade only one enterprise in an industry that his idea is worth trying out. If the idea is tested and works, the whole industry will soon be using it.

"No economy," he continues, "in which most decision-making is centralized can hope to compete in dynamic drive with an economy that has millions of enterprises with authority to make experiments and to adopt innovations."

In this economy, not only do the producers make millions of individual decisions, but the consumers have their say, too. By buying what they please and only what they please, they indicate what shall be made and shall be sold, and at what price.

Local Happenings

A number of the "young marrieds" met at the home of Nora Stone last Friday to make plans for the formation of a sewing and study group. After an afternoon of discussion and sewing, the hostess served a very delicious lunch.

The Guardian Bee Hive Girls entertained their mothers at a progressive dinner on Tuesday night, starting at the home of Mrs. Gordon Rasmussen then continuing on to the homes of Mrs. Howard Rasmussen, Mrs. Rol Stone and Mrs. Glen Meeks. A very enjoyable time was had by all.

Two little girls of about ten displayed an act of honesty the other day that will bring a thrill of pride to them for many years to come. Judy Vold and Judith Finch found a purse containing about $120 and immediately turned it over to Mr. Pittaway who returned it to its owner, Mrs. Ross Nielson who suitably rewarded each of the girls. What a lesson the world could take from such an act.

Bill Meeks has returned from a six-month stay in Rochester where he underwent an operation on his back. He is feeling much better and is very happy to be back.

Mrs. Dan Pengilly of Mayburt entertained at a chicken supper in honor of Mrs. Clark, (nee Elaine Palmer) on Tuesday evening, the occasion being Elaine's birthday. She also had as her guests Miss. Marie Nilsson, Mrs. Ken Restall, Miss. Joyce Phillips and Mrs. Murray Wilde.

Mrs. Joseph Nilsson's brother, Leo Gould and his wife from LeGrande, Oregon, were guests at the Nilsson home this week. They came up expressly to attend the Nilsson's Golden Wedding celebration but, as it had to be postponed until Thursday, they had to leave without being at the big event. However, they did have a very enjoyable visit while here.

The Misses LaDon Meldrum and Colleen Mitchell entertained "the old gang" at the Meldrum home on Saturday evening. The group is breaking up now with some members leaving to attend seats of higher learning and some going on missions.

Sunday evening the group was entertained at the home of Bernice Dahl.

High School students are enjoying additional holidays because of the cold weather. The furnaces are being repaired and the girls couldn't find enough to wear to keep them warm. A couple of students and a teacher that we know of are keeping warm by doing a little construction work.
